

PADI Oxygen Provider

COURSE OVERVIEW

For recreational scuba divers, emergency oxygen is the primary first aid given to individuals suffering from a near drowning or decompression illness (lung overexpansion injuries and decompression sickness). Providing emergency oxygen has become the standard of practice for treating injured scuba divers since it provides oxygen to starved tissues and aids in bubble reduction. This 5 hour course will show you the technics and systems to be able to aid someone who requires oxygen in an emergency.
